PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office. Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been [1276] compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Panti pronunciations are given the accents being earefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography lisplays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scene of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration :-Challages Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples LARGE WELL VENTILATED GO. this work contains more than five times as

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who anderstand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To pacties resident in England and interested China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-

It comprises upwards of two thousand large 4 Vols IMPERIAL QUARTO, Price. $20. A Large REDUCTION in PRICE is made o Purchasers of SIX or more Copies.

MR. WOODIN'S SENTENCE.

the 21st inst., when EDWARD LITTLEFIELD no repetition of the offence. Woodin, late Superintendent of the P. & O. Company at this port, was sentenced to six years' hard labour for embezzlement. After thirty-nine years' seemingly honourable service in the Company the career of the ,unfortunate man has been utterly wrecked and the saddest part of it is that there is little to be said in extenuation of the offence. Having worked his way up from a subordinate position it would seem that no sooner had he been promoted to the position of Superintendent with full charge of the Company's business at this branch than he found the temptation to use the Company's money in connection with his private speculations

QC. but what it amounted to was simply that when he took the money he intended to replace it. This is advanced as an extenuation in most cases of embezzlement, and in the present case there can be little doubt of besides his fees as a director in various public companies, was too valuable a one to be thrown away for the slender chance of being able to escape with the fruits of his dishonesty. Beyond there is the fact that he made no at tempt to escape until he found it was no longer possible to conceal his defulcations, and then he left the Colony, it is under stood, practically penniless, taking with him no more than was sufficient to carry him or his journey. And even then, according to the case put forward by Mr. FRANCIS, his object was not to escape but to make an attempt to borrow money from friends Japan in order to replace what he had stolen This, however, must have been a forlow hope, and there can be little doubt' that when he left the Colony he felt himself fugitive. All the circumstances go to show that when he took the money in the first instance he had no intention of permanently appropriating it to his own use, but he mus nevertheless have been thoroughly con scious of the criminality of his action. - It was no case of sudden violding to temptation. His scheme must have required mature consideration, and having given it that consideration he entered upon it de berately and with his eyes open. The un fortunate man had become thoroughly imbued with the gambling spirit, which he iedulged by speculations in shares, and having lost his own fatney he attempted to win i back with that of his employers. He was no they leave the Straits for Sam or even to he entered on his course of embezzlement, but bolding the position he did it would have been difficult for him to have arranged matters by agreeing to pay to his creditors longer wish to be considered as belonging to have entailed the cessation or curtailing of his gambling operations and consequently sometimes for Chinese and sometimes for the abandonment of the hope of growing rapidly rica, but he would have kept a clear conscience and continued enjoy the respect of his fellow-men His moral stamina, however, proved weak and with the true gambling instinct he staked his honour and reputation on the fluctuations of the market, with the pitifu result seen in the Supreme Court yesterday to do at Singapore in the way of true Consu. Ran entitled "The Balance Sheet of Short to Vicercy Chang Chib-tung, anti-foreign as he been complete. It is only since 1886 that his a fuller measure of public respect than did Mr. Woodin before his downfall became! known, and that he had earned the confidence of his employers was proved by his living. steady promotion in the office. When such a man goes wrong one is tempted to ask who can be trusted. Placed in a position of high responsibility and substantial emolument he proved faithless, and under the circumstances of the case no one can be

A CHINESE CONSUL'S PROCLAMA

The proclamation issued by the Chinese Consul-General at Singapore is an interesting document and comparatively harmless in its nature. It is amusing to find an official holding such a position issning in the form of a solemp procla mation a puff of a scheme for the sale of official titles. Traffic in titles is not unknown in some European countries, but even the most impecunious and least self-respecting too strong for him. All that could be urged of the states that make an income in this in favour of the prisoner was ably put before tutives openly to act as touts for the business. way would hardly authorise their represen-However, if China chooses to sell titles and Chinamen living abroad choose to buy them, no serious objection can be taken from an outside point of view so long as the scheme is not made the means of levying a forcible its truth, for the position Mr. Woodin bably no very great danger. The proclamation opens with the statement that a Cousul ten years or more.' It would be interesting to know what the Consul has done during that period, how many times he has what means he has adopted to do so. are not much mistaken his activities have been confined to raising subscriptions among his country men, the practical work of protecting them when they required protection falling upon the British official appointed by the Straits Government for that purpose under the title of Protector of Chinese. A Chinaman in difficulties at Singapore would, we imagine, be inclined to give the Consulate a wide berth, if indeed the idea that such an establishment existed at all over entered his head under such circumstances. Happily the proposed appointment of a Chinese Consul in Hongkong has been ahandoned for the present, but it is quite on the cards that it may be renewed on some future occasion, and would be useful for the purpose of the dis cussion that may then arise to have some expression of opinion from Singapore as to the utility or otherwise of the Consulate at that place. Amongst "our people" Consul General HWANG appears to include the Chinese traders and others to whom refers whose families date from two or three

VICTORIA REGATTA

First Day.-December 17

The first day of the Victoria Raga to justified all particulars the atticipations which have for the last fortnight been confidently in-dulged in. The arrangements of the managing Committee were such as to fully ensure the comfort and convenience of visitors, and no hitch of any kind throughout the afternoon militated against the complete success of the opening of the festival. To this and of course the delightful weather in no small degree contributed. Nothing could have been better ordained, even at the instance of the most enthusiastic carsman, than the sheet of blue water-the slight swell which denoted the presence of the coaling frollo and healthy enjoyment if the auspices are favourable. Being eminently so on the 17th inst. it is not, surprising that a very large gathering should assemble to with sthesport The fligship Kinkiana was crowded throughout the afternoon, and among the distinguished wishters on board were his Excellency Sir William Robinson. Lady Robinson. Miss Robinson and Master Robinson, Ceneral and Mrs. Dig-by Barker. &c. . Following therrapis also there was a large complement of liquides and the number f fluttering flags alkalon / the course from every kind of craft lent a gay and arimated appearance to the scene. The rules themselves proved of the utmost interest and the expectations of some good strugtles were proved to be very well founded. Next year we hope that measures will be taken to provent a recurrence of such an annoying incident as the stopping of the Irishrerew in the International race and the damaging of the Leek. All lannohes ought to be anchored at me the side of the course or made to follow in the wake of a race at some safe distance. The rowing all round was distinutly good. The first race of the first day—the Brokers' Cup for pair oars—only produced three boats, which shows that pair-oared'r wing is not greatly in favour. By many caremon it is maintained to be the best and most scientific form of rowing, requiring the most perfect carsmanship, and it is evident disqualified by passing the Flag boat on the port in this branch. Soott's spurt was a splendidly sustained effort which deserved his victory, and one of his crew was heard to remark at the fluish between his gasps that such a race was worth living for. It was at any rate worth seeing. The International Race, as we have before remarked, was from the first a "dead cert." for the Euglish crew. The Scotch combination had to be altered unfortunately at the last moment owing to Ken. nedy's incapacity. The two military men who took the places of stroke and number 3 were certainly an acquisit on of strength but not having had any practice could not get together at all. This is not the only crew which at the eleventh hour underwent alteration-indeed. the Club's eight was one-and it is a pity that this could not have been more avoided. Altogether it is clear the selection, of crews did not take place quite early enough, as although the training was in earnest there was too much to be done, too many draws to get together, and too many daults to remedy in too little time. A correspondent at l'ientein writes to Daily News on the 12th December that he had just interviewed the Rev. J. Parker, of the Loudon Mission, and found that he has had some i narrow escapes. He was living in Chaoyang at the time the rebels commenced the attack. He had heard rumours over night of their intentions, and before daybreak he was roused by the shouts of citizens who were rushing out of the city with a few chattels hasilty got together. Mr. Parker quickly prepared a buadle of clothing; and joining the exodus passed out of the south gate, as the rebels were entering the north They had already fired the yamen and the rattle of musketry was unpleasantly near. biting wind was blowing at the time and many women and children were frozen, having left their warm clothing behind in the excitament, Mr. Parker, after hiding for some ten days, started for Shanhaikuan, and thones to Tientsin. After some five days of hiding he returned to Chaoyang and found it deserted, except by a few innkespors. He promptly buried all his valuables, books, etc., before leaving, and

The N. C. NEWCHWANG.

Yesterday the captain and orew left the schooner Loongwha, which had been ashore seven days on or near the west bank. She was knocked about by the floating ice and sprang a leak. There is not much chance of saving either the vessel or the cargo as it is next to impoible to get beats for salving purposes. Some of the steamers were on the Bar for several days, but all have now crossed. The last news about the rising was that Gen-

There is undoubted y a lot of trouble in he province, and the authorities have enlisted all the coolies that are available. It is to be hoped the wave of rapine and murder will not pass through the foreign sattlement, for we have no means whatever of withstanding an attack of any kind. The report was spread that 150 British soldiers were on the way here for our protection, and that 500 soldiers had been sent to Tientsin, but we hardly look for such good luck. as we have not received even an ac nowlodgment of our pet tion for help.
